

Why I Create Art

by Harrison Goldberg

I create art because I love it! Instinctively, I believe it to be essential to the health of my very being, and to achieving a completeness of soul.

My work is an inspired interplay of color, form, and line. Although I believe this resulting visual language to be a product of my interior landscape, I enthusiastically extract vocabulary from the unlimited impressions I absorb and find in nature, music, urban graffiti, and sacred places. What is exciting is that in the process of creating, the unexpected and serendipitous often converge, and in this welcome mysterious interplay I conceive the shape of things to come.
